VIRTUOSO ISSUES
APOLOGY TO FANS

When troubador Emelio Foscatini gave a concert performance in Nu'jelm eight months ago, he announced to the delight of listeners, that he would be embarking on the recomposition of his father's lost Aria, reconstructed from memory, and to be completed and performed in a year's time. It is with much regret that Maestro Foscatini is forced to relay the unfortunate news to his devotees, that he will be unable to deliver on his promise. When questioned, Foscatini declined to provide details on his recent decision.

HOOKS OF THE SEA

Since time immemorable, the oceans of our lands have brought us fish, dangers, and mystery. For years, sailors brought back tales of mysterious monoliths, leading to the discovery of the Serpent Pillars that lead to the Lost Lands. In days past, murders would use boats to roam the seas, preying on fisherfolk or miners, ransacking their ships' and pillaging their goods. Since the building of the Floating Emporium, pirates have been roaming the waters once again to attack seafarers.

Gargoyles would design their own type of ship to better withstand attacks from the pirates as they transported their cargo across the oceans. Even the orcs, watching the battles from ashore would set about with plans for the construction of war vessels for the purposes of piracy and profit.

Despite all the dangers, the fisherfolk would still venture out to catch thier fish in order to feed thier families and towns. Unbeknownst to many was the existence of an ancient society, which recently revealed themselves to the public. Through their years of efforts, they had devised clever ways of catching fish and documented the many species of crustaceans that thrive on the bottom of the oceans.

Their volumes of writings educated the people on the characteristics of the different types of fish and where they could be caught. Where did the Order of the Dragonfish come from? Where do they convene and study the things they do? This past week, they unveiled several new types of fish hook, previously unseen by the public. These items seem to possess specialized magical properties, wearing out after so many uses. I wonder if these Fish Monger's know what is behind the recent phenomena alarming sailors; the ships and traps that are sucked

below the waters surface,
and the titanic drifting shadows passing below that have unerved even the most veteran mariner.

HEROIC CHICKEN SAVES TODDLER

Emily the chicken is celebrated as a hero
today, following her rescue of the family's 22 month old toddler who fell from the dock into the pond on their property. Emily began to cluck frantically which drew the attention of the boy's mother, Livia Greenwell, who was doing housework and had not noticed the child's disappearance. Greenwell asserted that before she could react, the plucky chicken launched itself into the water, and chickenpaddled the boy to shore. The boy has been examined by a local healer, and will not require any additional treatment.

STARGAZING SCHOLARS CALL FOR END TO SHENANIGANS

Mages in Moonglow are sending out a message to the wise-cracker who is putting black ink on the eyepiece of the great telescope to cease and desist immediately.
Heironymous, chief
astronomer in Moonglow
conveys this message,
"The whole black eye gag was a bit humorous at first; even I got a chuckle out of it. But it's been several weeks

now, and it's already become a bit tiresome."
There are no current leads on the identity of the prankster.

LOOKING FOR LOVE?

Are you looking for the sort of woman who is a faithful companion, lover, protector, and housekeeper and still haven't found her yet?
Maybe, it's time that you gave Orc Bride Match-ups
the chance to match you up with the perfect orc female to suit your needs. Let's discuss the many advantages of such a relationship. First, orc brides are loyal and never venture far from their home, so you'll always know where she is at any given time of the day.
Secondly, they are meticulous in the maintenance of their dens;
their strength allows them to lift heavy furniture and sofas while they sweep under them.
Third, orc women won't fake a headache when they aren't in the mood, because they are always in the mood for hot zugzug. Orc women are great nocturnal hunters.
If you leave the window open wide enough for them to crawl through at night, they will often return later with a fresh killed stag in their jaws, or a slain boar to lay at the foot of your bed. In short time she will have paid herself off in grocery savings alone. And the list goes on. So, if you are in the market for a bride that will last, then stop into one of our offices and see what we have to offer you.

TODAY'S SAFETY TIP ABOUT KEEPING YOUR LANTERNS BURNING AT NIGHT:

Don't be a fool when choosing fuel, to keep your lantern burning bright. So, fill your lamp with Captain DeCamp, When you bed down for the night. Captain DeCamp Fish Oil. Burns longer. Burns safer.
